

JOB VACANCY

ENVEO IT GmbH, Innsbruck, Austria is looking for a

REMOTE SENSING SPECIALIST / SOFTWARE DEVELOPER

ENVEO is an IT company specialised in satellite-based Earth Observation for climate monitoring, hydrology and cryospheric research. For the company profile and details on projects, products and services see <http://www.enveo.at>

The applicant is primarily responsible for generation, analysis, and interpretation of satellite-based remote sensing data within international projects and for technical and scientific reporting related to this work.

Responsibilities include:

- Contributing to international collaborative projects in Earth Observation from space in the fields of snow monitoring, climate monitoring, and cryosphere research.
- Development and implementation of software tools for processing of satellite data and generation of geospatial products on climate and environmental parameters.
- Analysis and evaluation of satellite-based geospatial products.
- Reporting the work performed and results in written reports at a level appropriate for outreach and communication in international context.
- Readiness to participate in foreign project meetings.

Required Skills and Experience

- Educated to degree level, preferably in engineering or computer science, geoinformation, earth science, or comparable studies
- High competence on software development (python, C/C++)
- Experience in big data processing and data analysis is an advantage
- Good skills in written and spoken English
- Good interpersonal and communication skills with the ability to work well within a team and motivation to learn

We offer

- An interesting job in a young international and interdisciplinary team
- State-of-the-art technical facilities (soft- and hardware, communication tools)
- The contract will start as soon as possible and will be initially issued for 1 year, with the possibility to be extended.
- The salary for this full time (40 hours/week) position depends on your educational background and relevant expertise. The monthly minimum salary is 3050.- € (gross), monthly salary is paid 14 times per year according to Austrian law.

This position is only open to candidates who are eligible to work in Austria.

Applications with CV and details on relevant expertise to: thomas.nagler@enveo.at